

On Selecting a New iPhone by Apple and Android Users

Team: Friends of Youssef

Chun-An Bau

Jakub Profota

Research Questions

- What do Apple/Android users focus on when inspecting the newest iPhone?
- How does a previous knowledge of Apple advertised iPhone features obtained from the Apple Event influence the user's interest in the device?
- How much are Android/Apple users willing to enter the Apple/Android ecosystem?

Research Methods

- Observation
- Survey

Observation

- 3 participants
 - Android user
 - iPhone 12 user
 - iPhone 7 user
- The observation was done in Apple store

Android User

- Focus on iPhone 13
- Pleased
 - Performance of 3D games
- Displeased
 - Easily scratched camera lenses
 - Tricky-to-hold shape
 - Hard to find functionalities
 - Expensive price

iPhone 12 User

- Focus on the new MacBook Air, iPad mini, and the latest released iPhones
- Pleased
 - Smaller notch
 - Better battery life
 - New colors
- Displeased
 - The large size of iPhone 13 pro

iPhone 7 User

- Focus on iPhone 13 mini
- Pleased
 - Perfect size
 - Improved battery life
 - Nice camera system
- The participant seemed to be thinking about buying the new iPhone

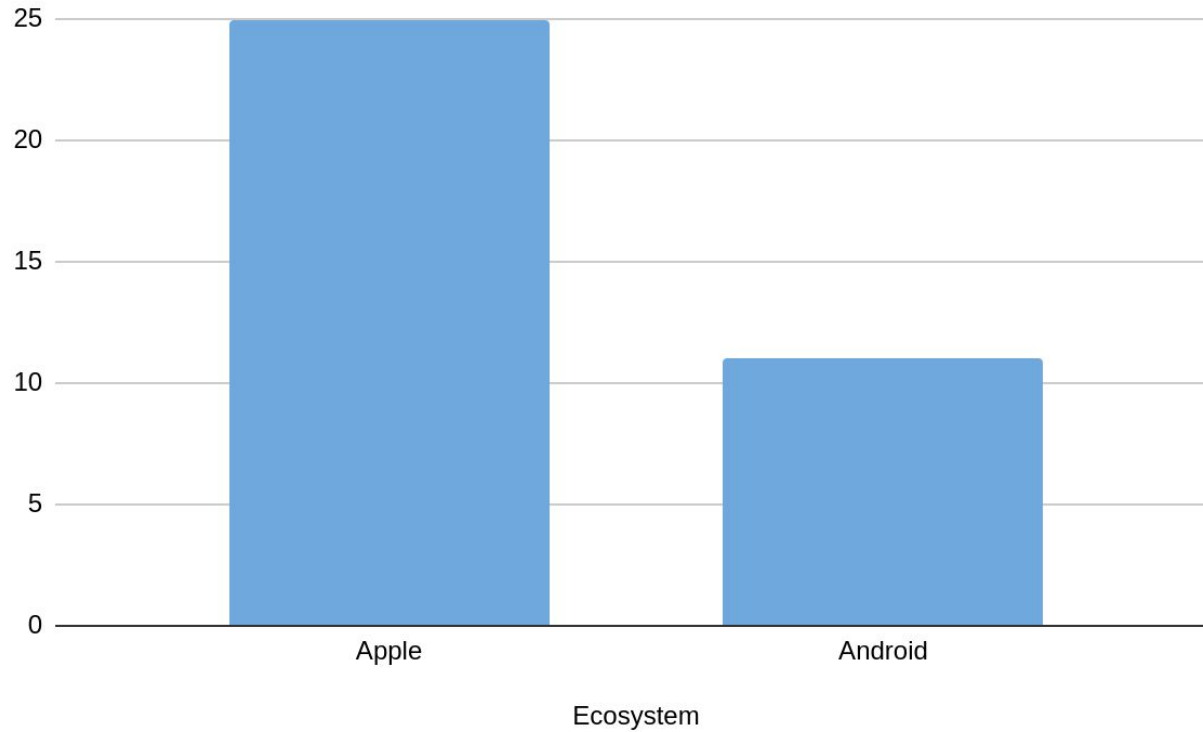

Survey

- Google Forms
- Promote by social media or direct message
- Received 36 answers

Gender

Ecosystem

How much do you like your current ecosystem?

- Likert scale
 - 1 for least preferable, and 5 for most preferable
- Apple: 4.25
- Android: 3.5

Android Users - Would you like to enter Apple ecosystem?

Android Users - If yes, why?

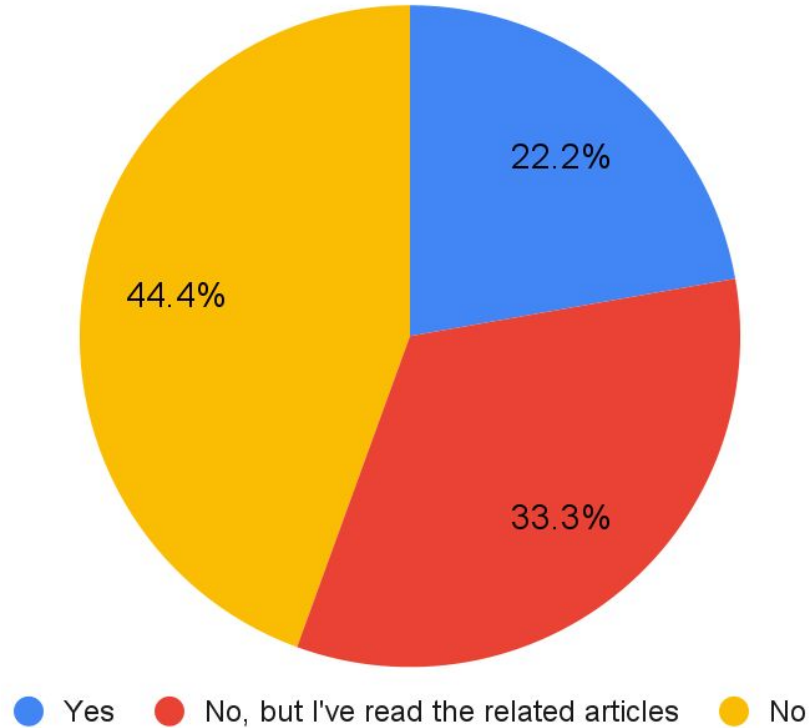

Apple Users - Would you like to enter Android ecosystem?

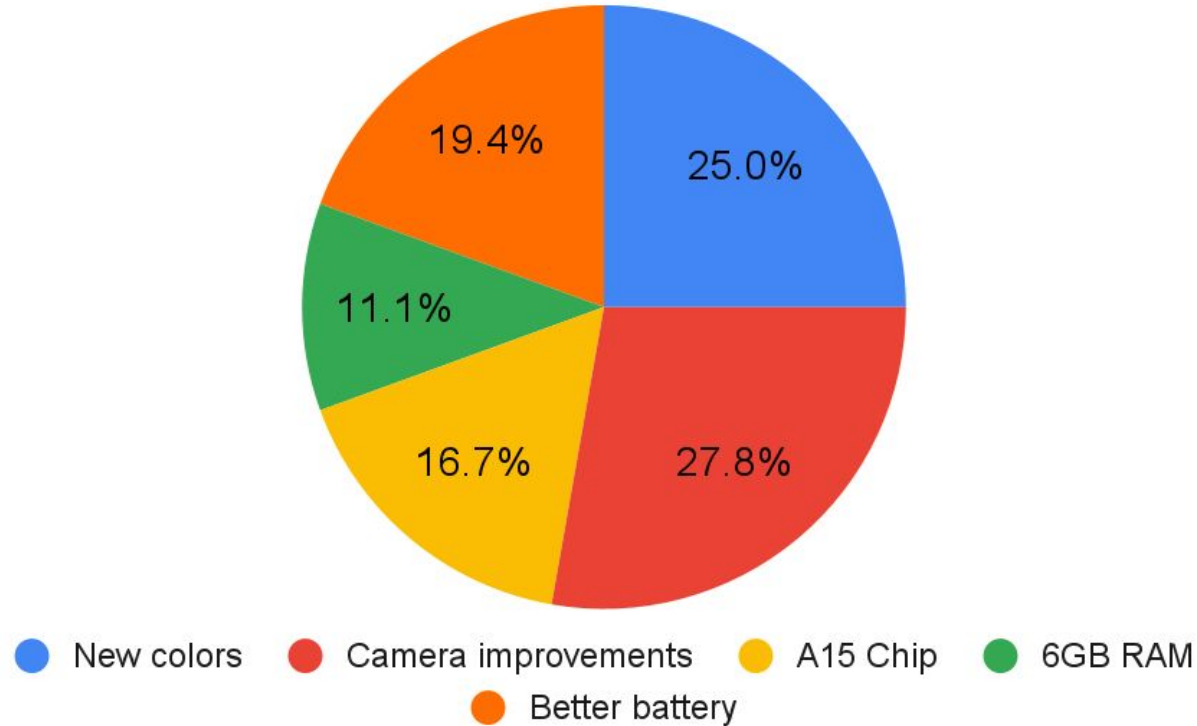

Apple Users - If yes, why?

Have you seen the Apple event?

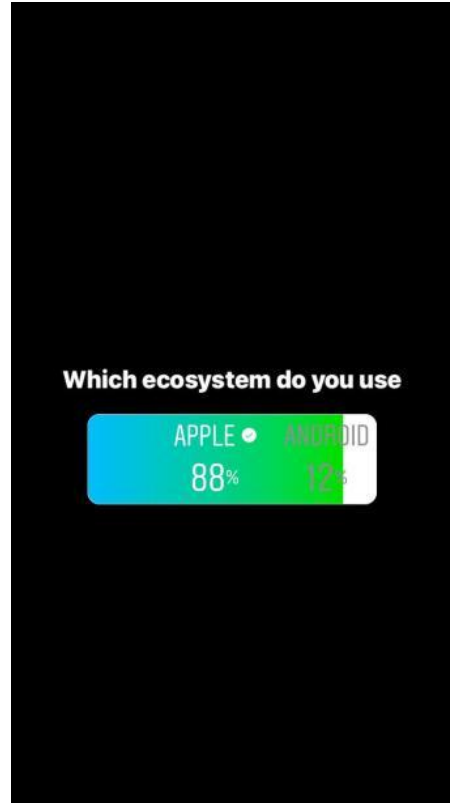

Which new features do you like the most?

Does the event make you want to buy their new products?

Bonus: Instagram poll

Conclusion

- While inspecting new iPhones, Apple users tend to give positive feedback, but Android users displease most of the features
- Apple users appreciate their ecosystem more than Android users do, but the majority of both sides don't want to change ecosystems
- The event is not the essential reason customers buy new products

Thanks for your listening

(This is Youssef)